Displacement

Situated close to Shirin Agha Camp in Kabul's District 8, this informal settlement is located across a large area, in which residents rent private houses from host community landlords. However, the land owners do not currently receive any payment. Ghaibi Baba Camp provides shelter to a Pashtun community of IDPs mainly from across the province of Kabul.

The site was established when all 220 households arrived at the location in 2009. There have been no demographic changes amongst the residents of Ghaibi Baba Camp, with no influxes of new households joining the site since 2009.

Residents are reported to feel a sense of security by being situated in the city centre. Since residents do not pay rental fees, most intend to stay in the settlement.
