Displacement

This informal settlement is located in Qasaba Blocks in Kabul's District 15. The land is rented from the Government of Afghanistan for a monthly household fee of 1,000 Afghanis. The population is diverse, consisting of 50% Tajiks, 40% Pashtuns and 10% Hazaras. The settlement is mostly comprised of IDPs from various locations around Afghanistan, although a small number returned from Pakistan.

The first influx of 10 IDP households established the settlement in 2009 travelling from Qarghayi, Laghman. A second wave of IDP residents moved from Baghlan, adding 30 households to the site in 2011. In 2012, 20 IDP households from Khanabad, Kunduz joined the settlement. Another influx in 2013 expanded the site, with 30 IDP households travelling from Mohammad Agha, Logar. All 20 returnee households entered the settlement in early 2016, travelling from Peshawar, Pakistan.

Nearly all residents reportedly plan to stay in the site as they have no alternative shelter options.
