

Introduction: This map is showing households that do not send their children to school because it is "too far" based on a camp survey of 3,126 households by REACH in April 2014, those households account for 3,942 of the ration cards in the camp. This is 95% of all registered households and 98% of individuals expected to be living in Gendrassa. The tent layer is expected to be representative of the population distribution across the site because of the robust random sampling methodology used.

Results: There were a total of 401 or 13% of respondents who said they have children not going to school, 182 or 6% of respondents said it was because the school is too far. The 6% of households that said the school was "too far" are the households depicted by black dots on the map.
