Displacement

This informal settlement is situated in District 22 of Kabul city in the neighbourhood of Pul-e Shina. Residents are living on land owned by the Government of Afghanistan and they do not currently pay rent. All residents are from Tajik communities. The settlement is comprised of returnees, previously residing in Pakistan, and IDPs from Kunduz, Baghlan and Paktya.

The settlement was formed in 2011 with 25 households arriving from Gujranwala, Pakistan. In 2013, 30 households moved to the site from Quetta, Pakistan and a further 20 households, again from Pakistan, joined the site in 2014. In 2015, 15 IDP households joined the site mostly from Khanabad, Kunduz. The site continued to expand in 2016, with 35 more returnee households and 15 IDP households arriving in the site.

All residents reportedly intend to stay in the settlement as they feel they have nowhere else to go. The settlement currently does not have enough drinking water for all residents but it does provide close proximity to employment prospects.
