Displacement

The Chaman-e Hussain Khail Camp is one of two on the outskirts of Hussain Khail Project. Close to Kamari Street, the settlement is situated on Bagرامي Street. The land belongs to the Government of Afghanistan and residents are currently not paying rent. Nearly all residents of the settlement are Tajik. The site is comprised of IDPs from Kunduz, Baghlan and Paktya and of returnees previously living in Pakistan and Iran.

The first 60 IDP households established the settlement in 2010, travelling from Khanabad, Kunduz. A second influx of 400 IDP households moved to this settlement in 2011 from Baghlan-e Jadid, Baghlan. In 2012, 140 IDP households from Jaji, Paktya entered the site. In 2013, a further 70 households arrived again from Baghlan-e Jadid. Throughout 2016, 80 returnee households moved to Chaman-e Hussain Khail Camp, with households moving from Punjab and Balochistan, Pakistan and Tehran, Iran.

Nearly all residents reportedly plan to remain in this settlement as they are able to stay here at no cost.
