Displacement

Hesa 2 Karte Parwan is an informal settlement in Kabul's District 4. The land is owned by the Government of Afghanistan and so residents are not currently paying any rent or fees. The entire population is comprised of Pashtun communities. Most of the settlement's population was displaced from provinces neighbouring Kabul, including Laghman, Kapisa and Parwan.

The settlement was established in 2001, when all 85 households formed the site. The camp has since remained stable, with space constraints restricting new residents from joining in the last 15 years.

As this settlement is located in the middle of the city, residents reportedly feel a general sense of security. As such, residents reported they have no plan to leave Hesa 2 Karte Parwan.
