2. Rationale

2.1. Rationale

Between late 2013 and 2017, intensification of conflict in north and central Iraq has resulted in large scale displacement. Following the de-escalation of active military operations against ISIL, Iraq has witnessed an increase in numbers of IDPs returning to their Area of Origin (AoO). Although many have since already returned, 1.4 million people remain internally displaced[1]. This includes 277,000 individuals (56'000 families) that reside in 44 formal IDP camps, or composite camp areas.[12] Nationally, the fifth round of REACH-CCCM Intentions Assessment in July 2019 found that only 7% of IDPs intended to return over the twelve months following data collection.[3] Considering the rapidly-changing context of the crisis with the closure and consolidation of camps as well as new displacements and waves of returns, up-to-date information about the needs of IDPs and available infrastructure and services in camps is necessary in order to address these needs as well as plan the camp strategy for the coming months. The conditions in camps differ greatly from one camp to another as well as between governorates, thus regular monitoring of conditions is essential to strategize appropriately the consolidation of some camps and closure of others in the coming year.

Camp Profiles:

To inform a more effective humanitarian response for IDPs living in formal camps, the Iraq CCCM cluster and REACH conduct bi-annual IDP Camp Profiling assessments. Information from this profile will be used to monitor camp conditions and highlight priority needs and service gaps faced by households in all accessible IDP camps across Iraq, as well as multi-sectoral differences across camps, in order to address needs, and to inform prioritization of camps for consolidation or closure where necessary. Furthermore, the data collected by the Camp Profiling will provide a comprehensive evidence base for programming and for future monitoring exercises inside camps. In addition, the data collected by the Camp Profiling will inform future planning by the CCCM cluster, as the primary harmonized mechanism for assessing IDP camps across Iraq.

[3] REACH-CCCM Intentions Round V – National Level Movement Intentions of IDP Households in Formal Camps.

Intentions:

The different settings in which IDPs reside can have a considerable impact on their stability in their area of displacement and the specific threats and vulnerabilities that they may face, which may in turn affect intentions to move, with regard to decisions to return or remain, and reasons for doing so. Consequently, it is important to understand and assess the movement intentions of IDP population groups.

3. Methodology

3.1. Methodology overview

This project will follow a mixed-methods approach, by making use of household-level surveys, Key Informants (KI) interviews, GPS tracking, satellite imagery and secondary data sources. Data collection will be conducted in accessible IDP camps in: Anbar, Baghdad, Dahuk, Diyala, Erbil, Kerbala, Kirkuk, Ninewa, Salah al-Din and Sulaymaniyah governorates.

- Household-level surveys: representative sample with a general confidence level 95% and margin of error 10%. Households will be randomly selected using shelter lists, or if unavailable, GIS point-based sampling techniques.
- Camp manager Key Informant (KI) interview: interview with camp manager(s) to complement information gathered from the household survey.
- Mapping: Mapping of key infrastructure such as roads, facilities, shelters, offices and other structures, to be used for satellite imagery analysis.

Data cleaning will be conducted on a daily basis during data collection. Data that is deemed inconsistent will be highlighted and shared with the field team for clarification or rectification. Once data collection is complete, profiles will be created primarily using the information from the household surveys and camp manager KI interviews. Satellite imagery analysis will be conducted using images taken as close to the date of primary data collection as possible. Data will be cleaned and analysed using SPSS, R and excel.

3.2. Population of interest

Geographical area: all accessible camps of Iraq with less than a hundred households in the following governorates: Anbar, Baghdad, Dahuk, Diyala, Erbil, Kerbala, Kirkuk, Ninewa, Salah al-Din and Sulaymaniyah. Some camps in insecure are not accessible due to security reasons.

Population: IDP households residing in camps (household surveys) and camp managers (KI interview).

3.3. Secondary data review

Secondary data sources to be reviewed include:

- Camp profiling Rounds I to XII will be used for the longitudinal analysis conducted for the comparative summary. Findings from earlier rounds in every sector (WASH, Shelter, non-food items (NFI), Food security, Education, Intentions) will be compared to all the findings of round XIII in order to draw out trends in the evolution of needs of displaced person in camps.
- Intentions surveys Rounds I to V.
- Previous comparative reports.
- CCCM FSMT (Formal Site Monitoring Tool)
- Other relevant assessments in any sector conducted in the IDP camps assessed withing the same time frame.
- Geo-spatial data (e.g. UNOSAT satellite imagery).

3.4. Primary Data Collection

Data collection is conducted by REACH enumerators, under the supervision of a REACH Field Coordinator or Assessment Officer.

Method: Enumerators hired by REACH will conduct household quantitative surveys and KI interviews of Camp Managers in IDP camps. For the household quantitative surveys, the persons interviewed will have to be adult (18 years old or above). If present, the head of the households will be interviewed, if not present any adult can represent the head of the household.

Sampling: IDPs residing in formal camps in all accessible areas in Iraq: 95/10 at camp level based off the population of each camp, the full list of camp assessed and the sample size for each is available in the Annex 3.

- As a primary method, a stratified sample of households (stratified by camp) will be drawn at the camp level, based on up to date occupied shelter lists provided by camp managers. Where lists of occupied shelters have not been provided, random GPS points will be generated across the camp to determine which households are selected for interview. Sampling maps will be provided to the teams; when in the field the nearest household to each point will be selected and interviewed. This seeks to avoid sampling bias that could result from the collection of an unrepresentative composite sample.
- For camps that have already been mapped, the grid points that fall inside infrastructure can be removed, thereby sampling only from residential areas. For new camps, boundaries and general layout will be collected beforehand in order to generate grids and to remove as many infrastructure points as possible – if a sampled point falls on infrastructure the nearest available household to that point is still interviewed.
- New satellite imagery will be ordered for each camp, and GPS tracks of key infrastructure/programme buildings will be taken by field teams. If mapping and/or household-level assessment reveals key concerns that are deemed appropriate for thematic mapping, if necessary field coordinators will return to the camp to take thematic GPS tracks to facilitate GIS analysis.

Tool: Two tools will be used: household-level questionnaire and KI interviews with camp managers. The household survey is a multi-sectoral structured questionnaire. It aims to collect information at household levels about their situation on the different sectors (demographic, displacement, protection, livelihood, food security, health, WASH, shelter and NFI, education, and aid received). The questionnaire is based off earlier rounds of camp profiles, incorporating lessons learnt and CCCM Cluster inputs. The questionnaire will be uploaded to REACH Kobo server.

Any amendments to the tool will be done in consultation with the CCCM Cluster, but with the aim of maintaining consistency between camp profiling rounds to enable longitudinal analysis.

As much as possible, data will be uploaded on a daily basis by REACH Senior Field Coordinators (SFCs) to be cleaned by the Assessment Officer who will provide feedback to the SDCs. Feedback will be shared on a daily basis via google spreadsheet or phone with REACH FCs to support their morning debriefing to the field teams.

3.5. Data Processing & Analysis

- Enumerators will use ODK to collect the surveys and will update them every evening to the REACH Kobo server. In addition, the SSID assigned to each selected location will be entered into the form by the enumerator at the time of data collection. This will then be cross-referenced with the coordinates recorded during data collection to monitor that the correct sites have been assessed.

- Data cleaning will be carried out by the Assessment Officer on a daily basis. Follow-up data collection will be conducted if deemed necessary to address inconsistencies or information gaps. Data that is deemed inconsistent will be highlighted and shared with the relevant Field Coordinator for clarification/rectification. These inquiries will be logged in a shared Google Spreadsheet in which focal points for each base can provide responses. All changes will then be made and logged by REACH staff.

At the end of data collection there will be two datasets:

1. Camp Profiling HH survey: dataset with all the surveys of the camp profiling, including the intentions indicators if the intentions surveys has been conducted at the same time, which is the case in Round XIII. This dataset will be used to run the analysis for the purpose of the camp profiling outputs (profiles, directory).
2. Camp Profiling KI dataset: dataset with all the KI forms from each camp manager. The KI dataset will be used to inform the camp directory, but no analysis will be run on it as the findings can be used as they are (for example number of individuals in the camp, number of latrines in the camp, etc.).

- Once data for all the camps has been completed, the Assessment Officer in charge will conduct analysis through SPSS, R and excel and amalgamate all the data into one database. There will be one dataset with all the household surveys and one dataset with all the KIs with camp managers. Anonymized version of the raw data, clean data, cleaning log and deleted logs will be sent to the HQ data unit for final review and validation.
- Data collected will also support comparative summary writing, where data will be weighted by population size to allow aggregation of findings above the level of stratification. This will allow reporting of findings at the national or governorate level. SPSS or R will be used in order to run custom tables and excel will be used for any demographic questions which require to compare the number of people in a certain category to the total amount of people in the camp (demographics, vulnerable populations, children by gender and age for school attendance), as well as data from KI interviews.
- The results will be compared to the ones of the previous rounds of camp profiling in order to identify trends in the evolution of needs with time.

For more details on the data analysis process, see the Data Analysis Plan in Annex 1 and 2.
